

Making Picots

This is for right handed tatting.

You need to be familiar with making the basic tatting knot before going on to picots. Refer back to the beginning pages if you need a refresher.

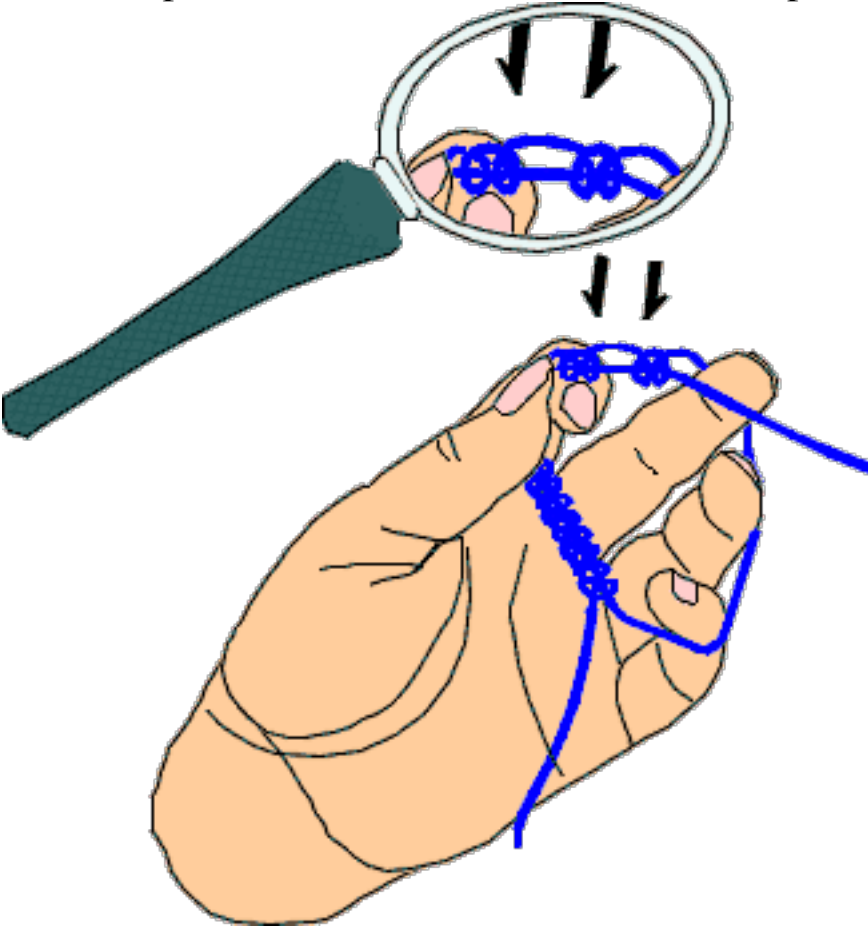

Picots are a staple of tatting. They give it the lacy look. They also are used to join rings together.

Here is how to form a picot.

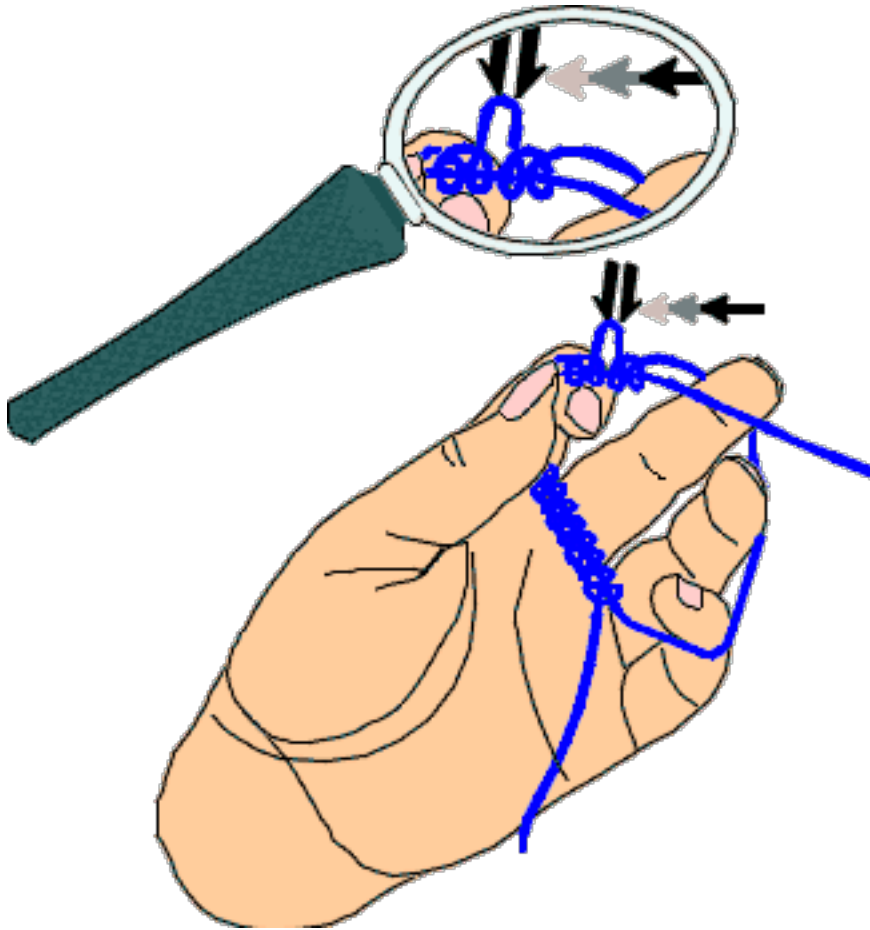

First make one complete stitch. Then, go on as if doing the first half of a regular stitch.

Leave a space between the new stitch and the previous stitch.

The amount of space you leave will determine how big the final picot will be.

Slide the completed stitch over to the previous one.
Practicing is the way to get picots to be even.

Now you can go on to closing the ring.

This Page: <http://carriestatting.com/tat/picots.html>

Main Page: <http://carriestatting.com>

Using CorelDraw!(tm) and Corel Photo-Paint(tm) I drew the pictures from scans of my own hands and wrote the text myself. I hold all rights to this page except the arrows and magnifying glass which are CorelDraw!(tm) clipart.

-Carrie Carlson